What does your job entail?

My position here at SANDIS is one of an Application Analyst. As an Application Analyst, I provide training on how to use SANDIS to newly onboarded staff, conduct testing for any new programs that are rolled out, and the 21 regional centers with any issues or questions they may have about SANDIS.

How would you describe your job to a 5 year old?

My job is to help others with any problems that they have with their computer programs.

What do you enjoy most about your current role?

What I enjoy most about my current role is that every day is different, in terms of duties. With this, it helps me learn something new every day, which makes the role fast-paced and exciting.

What do you think makes your team unique?

What I think that makes my team unique is that everyone brings in different skills and strengths which fosters a collaborative environment that allows everyone to learn from each other!

In your time with SANDIS, what has been your favorite project so far?

In my time with SANDIS, my favorite project has been being able to test new/various programs and finding new ways to make SANDIS more user-friendly for everyone.

Three words to describe you.

Considerate, open-minded, adaptable.

What's something most people don't know about you?

Something that most people don't know about me is that I loved playing music rhythm-based video games when they were at their peak (i.e., Guitar Hero, Rock Band) and I once won a Rock Band competition playing the guitar.
